

Eco-Printing Workshop

With MARGO DUKE

March 12-13, 2016 10am-4pm
at Oatland Island Wildlife Center

a Free Presentation Saturday, March 5 $50 for Guild Members - $65 for non-Guild Members class size limited to 12 participants

Learn the basics of natural print making and experiment with a variety of plant material as you create eco prints on paper and fabric via steaming and simmering methods. Students are encouraged to use plant material from their own environment as well as specialty plant material to enjoy the surprise element when opening their bundles.

Margo notes, "It is very exciting and everything is a surprise; some great results and maybe some not so great, as there is no sure thing and it is all about experimenting. It truly can become an addiction — a good one! You can stitch all your pieces together to make a scarf, garment, blanket, etc.... so fun!"
